Subject: Staff-Only Must Really Mean Staff-Only
Proposal: Currently when the library sets a bibliographic record as staff-only it doesn`t really stop the public from seeing this bibliographic record. Customers can still find the item in our public catalog if they do an ISBN search or bib number search. I have heard other librarians say that customers can still find staff-only bibs using a call number search but since we don`t offer that as a public search I can not verify this.
Most customers would not be doing a bib number search, but ISBN searches are not rare since customers may be searching using data pulled from Amazon.
Dynix should make all ``out-of-the-box`` public searches NOT display to the public under any circumstances bibliographic records marked as staff-only. [Or change the phrase to ``staff-maybe`` - only kidding].
